BOTH SIDES CLAIM DECISIVE VICTORY

Government Predicts Early End of War REBELS PROCLAIM NEW REPUBLICAN REGIME

Hendaye, July 24.

A big battle, in which rebel forces are stated to have gained the advantage, has been fought in the Pass Endariza, which borders on the provinces of Navarre and Guipuzcoa.—Reuter.

CLOSE TO MADRID

Lisbon, July 24.

The Conservative newspaper, Diario de Lisboa, reports through telephone advices from Madrid that valists and rebels are fighting within a mile and a half of the Spanish capital.

Rebel planes have flown over the city and attempted to bomb the War Ministry. It is reported that gunfire is audible in Madrid.

Meanwhile, private sources here report that rebels have captured the Ministers of War and Interior, attempting to flee from Madrid.—United Press.

REBELS ROUTED?

Madrid, July 24.

An official Government communique claims that the rebel forces advancing on Madrid from the north have been put to flight at Sierra Fuadarama.

Government units have also routed rebel troops at Guadalajara, it is claimed.—Reuter.

LOYALISTS CONFIDENT

Madrid, July 24.

The Ministry of the Interior has issued a proclamation of victory, saying: "The enemy will be conquered in a few hours."

It is said it has been confirmed that Senor Juan March, a multi-millionaire, financed the revolt.

Simultaneously with the Ministry's proclamation, General Franco, the rebel commander-in-chief, broadcast the statement that "the revolution continues victorious."

In the north, the rebels under General Mola have proclaimed a new republican Government, contending that the old Government has disintegrated.

Rebels Hopeful

"Over eight-tenths of Spanish territory is in our hands," the rebel statement claims. "A free Spain must immediately resume her place in concert with civilized nations."

The new President, it is announced, is General San Miguel Caballero, a great patriot.

Meanwhile, the rebels have slowed their advance on Madrid, anticipating a stout defence. But it is said that their advance guards have been involved in clashes north of the capital.

Holding Passes

It is announced that the Loyalists are still holding the mountain passes which lead to Madrid. Three thousand troops, reinforced by the same number of militiamen, routed rebel forces in a bitter battle in the mountains, north of the capital, splitting General Mola's columns and forcing them to retreat, it is claimed.

Former Deputy Senor Antonio de la Villa, by telephone, reports that rebel columns sought to converge on Madrid from two points, but were routed by the column from Guadarama. Loyalists advanced to within fifteen miles of Cebreros, and it is predicted that a decisive moment has been reached.

Some sources say the rebels are in a desperate situation, especially in Seville and Albacete. An official report says loyalists have captured the rebel stronghold of Chinchilla.

Optimism

Private sources say the Government controls San Sebastian, Santander and Gijon, and that loyalist aircraft have attacked and seriously damaged rebel forces at Mallorca, operating from their base at Barcelona.

The populace in Madrid has been warned to purchase foodstuffs only

WARSHIPS HASTEN TO SPAIN MANY SAVED FROM DANGER POINTS MUCH CONCERN STILL FELT

London, July 24.

International concern at the Spanish situation is undiminished. Anxiety has not been relieved with regard to the plight of British, French and German Embassies holidaying in San Sebastian and warships are now hurrying there, and to other Spanish towns to rescue foreign nationals.

British destroyers, the Verity and Veteran, have already arrived at San Sebastian.

Two of Germany's pocket-battleships, the Admiral Scheer and the Deutschland, are racing at full speed for Barcelona, where there are 6,000 Germans. Barcelona is one of the cities which is known to be literally in a state of siege and where there have been severe clashes.

Three British destroyers have arrived at Marasilla with 150 British refugees from Barcelona and another is expected shortly with another hundred aboard.

An ironical note was introduced by the rebel leader, General Franco, who to-day awarded the Military Cross to the master of the British steamer Gibel Derba, which rebel planes attempted to bomb yesterday. This act is presumably meant to be an expression of regret.—Reuter.

Fast Evacuation

Hendaye, July 24.
The British destroyer Verity has taken 500 passengers, including a number of British, from San Sebastian, where heavy fighting has occurred and continues.—Reuter.

Close Co-operation

San Sebastian, July 24.
British, French and American warships have evacuated hundreds of foreigners from this city.—United Press.

Washington despatches from various points in Spain state that beleaguered foreigners are being evacuated on a scale of international cooperation never equalled since the Boxer rebellion in China and virtually every major power is informally operating to aid those trapped in the war zones. France, through the American Embassy in Paris, has placed warships and merchantmen in Spanish waters at American service of Americans. Great Britain is rescuing hundreds of various nationalities and American ships are doing likewise.

Grave Danger

Wireless messages from San Sebastian state the place is in chaos and foreigners are gravely endangered. Hundreds taken to refuge in the British, French, American and German Consulates.

The Mayor of San Sebastian has ordered the women to assemble in designated places where he is undertaking to protect them. A British destroyer has evacuated five Americans and three Britishers from Terragona and the cruiser London, at Barcelona, has embarked 100 Britons and is assisting in the evacuation of Americans.

Briton Murdered

It is officially learned that the Spanish clerk of the American Consulate at Barcelona, Senor Iturralde, and a British companion, were killed on the night of July 22, while bringing Mr. George Jenkins, an executive of the Ford Motor Company, to the Consulate in an automobile flying the American flag.

A Consular report says the Spanish officials returned the bullet-riddled bodies and expressed "concern, sympathy and deep regret."

It is learned that foreigners at Majorca are safe, the area being in the hands of rebels.

Conditions in San Sebastian are said to be rapidly approaching anarchy.

Italy has despatched six cruisers to Spain to assist in the evacuation of foreigners.—United Press.

SCENE OF HEAVY BLOODSHED

The port of Barcelona, scene of a much bloodshed during the rebellion which now grips Spain. A great part of the city is said to be in ruins, whilst hundreds have been killed in hand-to-hand battles which have raged for days and nights.

GERMANY WELCOMES ATHLETES

AMERICANS GIVEN WARM GREETING
CONTINGENT OF 502

Berlin, July 24.

Five hundred and two American athletes and officials arrived here to-day for the Olympic Games and received one of the lustiest ovations accorded to a visiting delegation.

Thousands jammed the station to meet the train which brought them, and the entire German Olympic Committee formally welcomed the team, while a band played "The Star Spangled Banner." Everywhere the victors received the Nazi salute.

"Conditions in Berlin are the finest ever provided for sports competition," said the American contingent's leader.

As the team drove to Olympic Village, riding on the tops of buses, the streets were lined by cheering thousands.—United Press.

Jews Abandon Pilgrimage

FEAR ATTACKS FROM ARAB ELEMENTS

Jerusalem, July 24.

Orthodox Jews will not make the annual pilgrimage to the Wailing Wall on Monday.

The Rabbis have cancelled the ceremonies owing to fear of disturbances, especially as the ancient fast day coincides with the hundredth day of the Arab strike.—Reuter Special.

KING UNVEILING VIMY'S CANADIAN MEMORIAL

London, July 24.

Over 6,000 Canadians land at Havre and Antwerp to-day and travel to Vimy Ridge, scene of heroic sacrifice and victory, where the inspiring monument to the Canadian Expeditionary Force will be unveiled by the King on July 26. It commemorates the 60,000 Canadians who died in France and Belgium.

At Vimy these 6,000 will be joined by another 1,500 ex-soldiers, already in London.

His Majesty will leave Portsmouth to-morrow night aboard the Admiral's yacht, Enchantress. The President Albert Lebrun, who wel-

Bombs Aimed At American Merchantman

PROTEST LODGED BY CONSULATE

Washington, July 24.

The State Department has revealed that the Tangier Consul-General, Mr. Maxwell Blake, has protested to the rebel leader, General Franco, via the British Consulate at Tetuan, following the report of the master of the American steamer Exmouth that bombs were aimed at his craft by Spanish aeroplanes.

Three missiles were dropped within 100 yards of the Exmouth when she was on her way from Gibraltar to Malaga.

Apparently this incident occurred on Wednesday, simultaneously with the attempted bombing of a British steamer at Tangier by rebel aircraft, upon which the British destroyer Whitehall, replied with several shots.—United Press.

RESPECT NEUTRALITY

Tetuan, July 24.

General Franco, the rebel leader, said to-day he had no intention of violating the neutrality of Tangier.

"We have encountered no special difficulties. My sole surprise was the 'loyal' attitude of the fleet." The rebellion was proceeding according to plan and was assured of success, he added.

"My intense desire and sole wish is to suppress the influence of Moscow upon the life of my country."—United Press.

EXPULSION SUSTAINED

U.S. OLYMPIC STAR TO GO HOME

Berlin, July 24.

A Special Olympic Committee meeting was held on the train from Hamburg to Berlin, on which the American Olympic team was travelling, and it sustained the expulsion of Mrs. Eleanor Helme Jarrett, American record-holding swimmer, from the team for repeated breach of rules.

Mrs. Jarrett tearfully pleaded for reinstatement, and promised to be "a good girl from now on." She protested her career would be ruined. Her pleas were of no avail.—United Press.

McMAHON'S WRITTEN THREATS

READ IN BOW ST. POLICE COURT ADDRESSED TO SIMON

London, July 24.

Before George McMahon's second appearance in the Bow Street Police Court had concluded to-day a letter allegedly written by the prisoner to Sir John Simon was read to the court by defending counsel.

McMahon is charged as a result of the attack on the King during the review of the Guards recently when he was found in possession of a revolver.

The letter to Sir John claimed that the writer was a victim of "organised persecution by your hirelings," which had prevented him obtaining employment.

The letter stated that as previous appeals to the King had been unsuccessful, he now demanded full satisfaction within fourteen hours, otherwise he would exercise his own prerogative and obtain adequate satisfaction.

The letter concluded: "This is no silly boast. I demand justice, irrespective of the consequences."—Reuter.

Attending Red Manoeuvres

BRITISH OFFICERS GOING TO RUSSIA

London, July 24.

For the first time since the Great War, Great Britain has decided to send military officers to attend the Russian Army manoeuvres.

These are being carried out in September and the British party will consist of two or three officers together with the military attaché at Moscow.—Reuter.

CORONATION PLANS

COMMITTEE MEETS AT PALACE

London, July 24.

The second meeting of the Coronation Committee was held at Buckingham Palace to-day.

For the first time in history, the Dominion representatives were present. These included the Australian High Commissioner, Mr. Stanley Bruce, Sir C. J. Parr, New Zealand's High Commissioner, and Mr. C. T. T. Water, South Africa.—Reuter Bulletin Service.

Voluntary Retirement In Colony

OFFER TO CIVIL SERVANTS ATTEMPT AT ECONOMY

In order to effect economies, necessitated by the fall in the sterling value of the Hongkong dollar, the Government proposes to permit voluntary retirement of certain officers before the age of fifty, provided they retire within the next two years.

The proposed change is provided for in an amendment of the Pensions Ordinance, the draft of which appears in the current issue of the Government Gazette.

It is explained that Paragraph (b) of section 8 of the Pensions Ordinance (No. 21 of 1932 as amended by No. 29 of 1935 and No. 3 of 1936) permits voluntary retirement on pension after an officer has attained the age of fifty years if the officer gets the consent of the Governor of his retirement. Otherwise (except in the cases of women and of certain Indian subordinate officers in the Prison Department) the normal age for voluntary retirement is fifty-five.

The amending Bill, when enacted, will give the Governor, with the approval of the Secretary of State, power to consent to voluntary retirement before the age of fifty is attained in the case of officers who so retire not later than June 4, 1938.

It is considered that economies can be effected in cases where retirement results in a reduction of staff or in filling vacancies with less highly paid officers, and it is the contemplation of such cases and the necessity to reduce the Budget deficit consequent on the fall in the sterling exchange value of the local dollar which prompt the proposed amendment in the Pension law.

The new proviso added to section 8 of the principal Ordinance by clause 2 of the Bill gives "the effect of sections 2 and 3 of the Nigerian Ordinance No. 11 of 1932, legislation on the lines of which the provision for such voluntary retirements within a period not exceeding two years was authorised by the Secretary of State's telegram of June 4, 1936."

Landon Plans Campaign

ROOSEVELT WON'T MAKE COMMENT

Topeka, July 24.

Governor Alfred Landon, Republican nominee for the Presidency of the United States, and his aides, laboured with details of his campaign to carry to the nation the plea for a return to "the free, competitive system" of American government.

Mr. Landon arrived at his office early to-day and quickly started all business while messages from all parts of the nation were brought in, giving the reaction to his speech of acceptance of the Party's nomination yesterday.

He cleaned up his desk and without delay received the pressmen. He appeared satisfied with the crowd's reception of his speech but declined to elaborate on any of the campaign issues treated upon there. He intends, he says, to develop each subject of national importance in later speeches.

A message from Yarmouth, Nova Scotia, where President Roosevelt is aboard his yacht, Potomac, says the President heard Mr. Landon's speech over the radio, but that he declines to comment upon it.—United Press.

New Military Treaty

BRITAIN AND EGYPT SIGN CLAUSE

Cairo, July 24.

The military clause of the Anglo-Egyptian Treaty was signed to-day by both delegations.

The terms have not yet been published and the delegates will now proceed with a discussion of the Sudan.—Reuter Bulletin Service.

CORONATION PLANS

London, July 24.

The Duke of York presided at the second meeting of the Coronation Commission, held at St. James's Palace to-day. Dominion representatives were attending for the first time.—British Wireless.

Shirt, Shorts and Halter

Three essential garments for the Summer wardrobe

WHEN shorts were first introduced some four years ago they were looked at askance by all but the women who insist on being always ahead of fashion and the women who like to shout from the housetops of the emancipation of their sex.

Popular opinion, however, has changed since then and now everyone includes shorts as a necessary item in her wardrobe. Modern woman, even in her most feminine mood, is essentially practical and shorts are a practical garment, which is probably the main reason for the wholesale acceptance of this fashion.

BUT the improvement in design has also had something to do with our changed attitude. The first versions seem to us now to have been very boyish affairs, both in cut and fabric. To-day we make them in styles that add grace to our figures and in fabric pleasing to wear and properly decorative.

Look, for instance, at those pictured here. They have inverted box pleats down centre front and back and at the sides. The fullness provided by these pleats not only disguises the practical divided skirt, but also, by its clever arrangement, gives a slimming effect to hips and waistline.

The pleats on the shorts worn by the first girl in the drawing are stitched so that they keep their shape without losing much of their fullness. In the second drawing the pleats are shown hanging freely.

THE shirt and the halter are the two types of garment that are being worn this year with shorts. Sections for both these garments are included in this pattern.

On the left figure is pictured the shirt. Its plain neckline and front wrap-over edge are plainly tailored and workmanlike. It has a "tail" that tucks well into the shorts and will not ride up in an ugly manner. And there's a yoke and easy-fitting box pleats at the back, as you can see from the small drawing.

Definitely an outfit that would be really comfortable for tennis, for walking, or for the beach.

Whistling is good for you

It relieves an inferiority complex

A TINWORKER in Wales, has won forty-nine competitions; he can whistle for four hours continuously with only one break for a glass of water.

He probably has many years of happy, healthy life before him. Whistling not only relieves inferiority complexes, but also makes a splendid exercise for regulating breathing, extending the lungs, and nicely shaping the lips. Mussolini whistles, so does Einstein.

Many expert whistlers get some of their best and strongest notes on the intake of breath, but this is difficult.

Whistling is a natural gift dependent on a certain formation of the lips, mouth and teeth.

When you whistle you make a series of shrill musical sounds, by endurance whistling. At Rethel, in more or less forcibly expelling your whistled continuously for twenty-three hours.

On the other hand, Chinese never whistle. There is a 3,000-year-old edict against it. They believe that it will summon evil spirits.

Among the Arabs and certain Central Asian tribes whistling is supposed to be diabolically inspired. Forty days are required for penance and purification before your mouth is clean again.

Up to 1930 at least there was a law in one American State to prohibit whistling on Sundays.

The Marquis Pelier, of France, spent fifty years in prison after one fatal night at the Comedie Francaise in 1787, when he "whistled derisively" in the presence of Queen Marie Antoinette.

The German composer Werner Heymann can whistle and sing at the same time, especially Bach fugues.

In 1923 the Californian State Board of Education granted Miss Blanche Adelia Hawkins a certificate authorising her to "conduct the art and process of whistling" in the schools. This was the first certificate of the kind. It would be nice to know how she is getting on.

"WE DON'T WANT JEWS Exiled Arab Leader Speaks

"BRITAIN BETRAYED US"

By LADISLAS FARAGO

JUST before he left under police escort for exile in Aujat-el-Hafir, the "Siberia" of Palestine, Fakhry Bey, Nashabshi leader of the Arab Labour party, gave me a dramatic interview.

In this interview he outlined the cause which every Arab is prepared to defend with his life.

Fakhry Bey, ex-officer in the Turkish Army, is, in the British view, one of the most dangerous men in Palestine.

His removal to the desert prison camp for Arab National leaders has made him a hero in the eyes of the men who to-day continued their sniping attacks on British patrols and Jewish travellers.

I was present when the police escort arrived to take this fierce member of an aristocratic 500-year-old Arab family to the barbed-wire-surrounded camp, denounced by Arab rebels as the "British Concentration Camp."

THE STORM CENTRE
When I arrived at Fakhry Bey's modern house in the Nashabshi quarter of Jerusalem, where most of the shooting takes place, I was led into the presence of the Labour party chief.

These police had given orders that he was not to leave his Jerusalem home except to report to them three times a week.

Yet I found him surrounded by a group of Arab agitators.

"You see," he said to me, "even if I may not leave my house, my friends come to me."

We sat on the cushions in the room, and Fakhry Bey smiled and continued to speak in the house of an Arab gentleman, but now we really compared.

"Has not this revolution been forced upon us?"

"We lived here in peace and contentment," he observed, "the English while they offered us a hope of independence."

"Then we realised we had been betrayed."

"We showed you British that we could fight for you."

"Now we are showing you we can fight just as well for our own cause."

PROPHETIC WORDS
"We don't want Jews. Our movement is anti-Jewish, but we are not anti-Semitic."

"We have nothing against the British, but we are determined to stop any further Jewish immigration."

"I am hourly expecting that the police action in removing me from Jaffa will be followed by my removal to Aujat-el-Hafir."

Within a few moments of this statement his words came true, and I saw him driven away in a police car.

To-day Fakhry Bey is a prisoner at Aujat-el-Hafir.

The court also sentenced a Czechoslovakian citizen, Guendrie Hoffman, to eight years' imprisonment for espionage.

He was convicted of seeking secrets of the German Air Force and air force system.

His orders were said to have come from an "unspecified" foreign news service.—British United Press.

WED HIS STEP-MOTHER

Warsaw, July 15.

COUNT BOLKO VON HOCHBERG, who caused a stir two years ago by marrying his step-mother, died in Warsaw to-day. He was the youngest son of Prince Heinrich of Pless by his first marriage with Miss Daisy Cornwallis-West, who divorced him in 1922. Three years later the prince married Senorita Artiloller, a Spanish banker's daughter. This marriage was dissolved in 1934 and in the same year she married his son.

Unhappy Children Of Vienna

Out of 16,500 children, born in Vienna in 1935, more than one fifth, namely 3,255, or 21.5 per cent, were illegitimate, according to official statistics, just published.

The figure, an improvement against 1930, when 25.5 per cent of the babies were born of wedlock, which was a record for Vienna.

In the so-called "good old times," however, when Vienna was the capital of "His Apostolic Majesty," Emperor Francis Joseph, almost every third Viennese came to life as a natural child; between 1900 and 1914 the average percentage of illegitimacy was 34.258 and 10.350.

This alarming proportion is ascribed, in part, to the presence of a large garrison in Imperial Vienna.

Vienna seems doomed to die out gradually.

Its birth-rate is rapidly sinking.

While in 1900 the number of deaths was 32,498 compared to 41,690 births, the corresponding figures for 1935 were 24,253 and 10,350.

Since 1920 the number of marriages gradually declined until 1934.

Before the war, an average of about 20,000 couples were annually married in Vienna.

The number of marriages which, for obvious reasons, had shrunk to insignificance during the war, reached record figures in the first post-war years.

In 1920 no less than 31,164 marriages were concluded in Vienna.

Since then the number has slumped from year to year; in 1925 there were 17,416 marriages; 16,013 in 1929, 14,850 in 1932, 13,687 in 1933, and only 13,211 in 1934.

Because of the anti-religious tendency of Continental European socialism many thousands of Viennese left the Roman Catholic Church into which they had been born under the red regime.

The anti-religious wave reached its peak in 1927, when 28,837 persons resigned from the Catholic Church in Vienna.

In the course of the last three years, not less than 50,000 apostates have rejoined the Roman Catholic Church in Vienna.—United Press.

DOCTOR'S DEATH

An unusual tragedy occurred sometime yesterday in the Kowloon Hotel.
Dr. Adalbert Bardos (49) a Hungarian, was found dead in his room, death being apparently due to poisoning and everything points to a case of suicide.

Dr. Bardos came to the Colony on July 19 from Amoy and booked at the Kowloon Hotel. He left the same day for Canton and did not return until July 22. He reached the hotel late in the evening and it was assumed that he retired to his room.

Yesterday he was not disturbed during the day, for since he had booked his room he had indicated that he did not wish to have meals at the hotel. Finally, at about 4.30 p.m., one of the "boys" went to Dr. Bardos' room with the intention of cleaning it, and when he could not get a reply to repeated knocks he became suspicious and entered. The room had not been entered earlier since it was believed that the doctor was sleeping.

The "boy" immediately reported the apparent death of the doctor to the room to Mr. White, manager of the hotel, who informed the Police and the hospital.

Dr. G. H. Henry, of Kowloon Hospital, came to the hotel and the body was later taken to Kowloon Hospital mortuary. A post mortem is to be held this morning at the night boat.

Beside the body of Dr. Bardos were found three pills, all empty and it is assumed that he took his own life by poisoning.

SUNDAY'S SERVICE

The subject of the Lesson Sermon in all churches of Christ, Scientist,

The Golden Text will be: "God shall send forth his mercy and his truth." (Psalms 57: 3.)

DAY BY DAY NEWS IN BRIEF

THE NOBLEST MOTIVE IS THE PUBLIC GOOD.—Virgil.

His Excellency the Governor has appointed Mr. J. B. Macle to be Surgeon Lieutenant in the Hongkong
Naval Volunteer Force.

Residents and others interested are reminded that the annual meeting of the Mid-Levels Residents' Association takes place in the Board Room of Messrs. Jardine, Matheson and Co., Ltd., at 5.30 p.m. on Monday.

The Hongkong Scouting Gazette states that His Excellency the Chief Scout for Hongkong has been pleased to commend Patrol Leader Chan Po of the 8th Kowloon Troop for assistance rendered by him in securing the arrest of an armed thief in the Shamshuipo district on April 5 last.

His Excellency the Governor has been pleased to make the following appointment under the provisions of the Hongkong Volunteer Regulations, 1933: Captain Gerald Stuart Frizello, the Royal Ulster Rifles, to act as Adjutant, with effect from August 1.

Among others, the following citations from the Bible will be read:
"I exhort therefore, that, first of all,
suppliants, prayers, intercessions, and giving of thanks, be made for all men; for kings, and for all that are in authority; that we may lead a quiet and peaceable life in all godliness and honesty. For this is good and acceptable in the sight of God our Saviour. Who will have all men to be saved, and to come unto the knowledge of the truth." (1 Tim.
2: 1-4.)

The Lesson Sermon will also include the following passages from the Christian Science textbook,
"Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy:
"The thunder of Sinai and the Sermon on the Mount are pursuing and will overtake the ages, rebuking in their course all error and pre-claiming the kingdom of heaven on earth. Truth is revealed. It needs only to be practised."

For that which should startle the slumbering thought from its error-ous dream are partially unheeded;
but the last trump has not sounded, or this would not be so. Marvels, calamities, and sin will much more abound as truth urges upon mortals its resisted claims; but the awful darker of sin destroys sin, and foreshadows the triumph of truth.
God will overturn, until "He come whose right it is." Longevity is increasing and the power of sin diminishing, for the world feels the alterative effect of truth through every pore.

"Truth destroys falsity and error, for light and darkness cannot dwell together.
"Truth brings the elements of liberty. On its banner is the Soul-inspired motto, "Slavery is abolished." The power of God delivers deliverance to the captive.
No power can withstand divine Love.
What is this supposed power, which opposes itself to God? Whence cometh it? What is it that binds man with iron shackles to sin, slepness, and death? Whatever enslaves man is opposed to the divine government. Truth makes man free." (Pages 174, 223, & 224.)

DISTRIBUTION OF HANDBILLS

PERMISSION MUST BE SECURED

The Gazette contains the draft of an Ordinance to amend further the Summary Offences Ordinance, 1932.

It is explained that Section 3 (17) of Ordinance No. 40 of 1932 provides that every person shall be liable to a fine not exceeding $250 who, without lawful authority or excuse, in any public place posts up or exhibits, or causes to be posted up or exhibited, any notice or proclamation in the Chinese language without the permission of the Secretary for Chinese Affairs or a District Officer.

The paragraph is not to apply to Government notices.

The paragraph in question was taken from paragraph (13D) of section 2 (b) of Ordinance No. 22 of 1930, which was repealed by section
32 of the 1932 Ordinance.

A magisterial decision in 1931, under the 1930 Ordinance, held that the distribution of a handbill in the Chinese language was "exhibiting a notice." Since then it has been the practice to provide each distributor of handbills with a chopped copy containing the approval which he could show to any police officer.

A more recent magisterial decision under the 1932 Ordinance has held that the distribution of handbills was not covered by the paragraph in question.

The object of this amending Ordinance is to bring the distribution of handbills again within the mischief against which the paragraph is aimed.

The following forthcoming weddings are announced:—Mr. George Joseph Lenz, teacher, La Salle College, and Miss Katherine Tin, residing at 13
Tsun Yam Street, Happy Valley; Mr.
Michael George Lenz, clerk, General
Post Office, and Miss Mary Scouderan, of 232 Gloucester Road, second floor.

The appointment of H.E. Sir
Andrew Caldecott, by H.M. the King, as Knight of Grace of the Venerable Order of the Hospital of St. John of Jerusalem is gazetted.

TRAVEL MADE HIM CONSTIPATED*Salesman Says Kruschen Keeps Him "On His Toes"

"I am a commercial traveller," writes a correspondent, "and due to endless travelling by train, I find that I become constipated if I do not keep myself well purged. Kruschen Salts is the only thing that will do this effectively and not interfere with my work. I take a large dose of Kruschen every Saturday night and on Sunday, when I have no work to do, the Salts act on me. On week-days I take a small dose the first thing on rising. It is necessary that I be 'on my toes' all through the day, and this is the only way that it possibly can be done. I have tried other laxatives and they have proven to be either unreliable or harsh in their action."—V. L.

Kruschen Salts is Nature's recipe for maintaining a condition of internal cleanliness. The six salts in Kruschen stimulate your internal organs to smooth, regular action. Your inside is thus kept clear of those impurities which, allowed to accumulate, lower the whole tone of the system.

teeth that sparkle and charm

You, too, can have them—if you know this secret about removing film

Brushing with ordinary dentifrices can never give you the gleaming white teeth you envy. Only brushing with an effective film-removing dentifrice can do that. For film is the sticky, gummy coating that forms on teeth, obscures their natural beauty. Even worse, it glues to teeth the germs and acids associated with tooth decay. You must remove that film.

That's why we urge you to use Pepsodent, the special film-removing tooth paste. For Pepsodent contains a cleansing and polishing substance that is unexcelled in removing film from teeth. Yet it contains no grit—nothing to injure tooth enamel. So if you want whiter, brighter teeth remove film the safe, effective way—with Pepsodent Tooth Paste.

Britain's £250,000 Radio Arm TO REACH OUTPOSTS OF EMPIRE

STATION WILL RIVAL GERMANY'S SUPER-SERVICE

THE B.B.C. will have spent £250,000 on making Daventry the biggest short wave broadcasting station in the world by the end of this year.

Six transmitters and a complicated system of 22 aerials with reflectors will give up to 100 per cent. better reception in the remote parts of the Empire than does the existing equipment.

Up Guards And Strap 'Em

NEW Army dress regulations provide that on ceremonial occasions mounted officers of the Brigade of Guards shall wear tight-fitting trousers held down by means of a strap under the boot. Instead of pantaloons and top boots.

The dress is optional for other units but compulsory for the Guards.

Planets Affect Weather

Washington, July 20.

THE movements of Venus and Mercury may have an important effect on weather phenomena. These two planets together with the earth are engaged in kicking whirlwinds back and forth around the disc of the sun.

These are some of the conclusions presented by Dr. Fernando Sanford of Palo Alto, California, in a study just presented through the Smithsonian Institution here, of the wide variations in the number of visible sun spots with different configurations of the three inner planets of the solar system.

Mrs. A. S. D. Maunder, English astronomer, some thirty years ago called attention to the fact that the invisible side of the sun turned away from the earth seemed considerably more favourable for sun spot activity than the terrestrial side. More spots were formed and fewer disappeared on the invisible side. For some reason the earth seemed to inhibit the formation of sun spots on its own side, or to aid their formation on the opposite side. Dr. Sanford reasoned that if this were true of earth it should be still more true of the planet Venus which is more than 20,000,000 miles closer to the sun, so that its influence should be more potent. Dr. Sanford has now checked this hypothesis with sun-spot records for fifteen years.

EARTH AND VENUS

Earth and Venus move in different orbits. Sometimes they are on the same side of the sun, sometimes on opposite sides and sometimes half-way between. Dr. Sanford checked the sun-spot phenomena on the visible side of the disc for all these planetary positions. He found that the sun-spottedness on the terrestrial side was approximately 80 per cent. greater when Venus was on the opposite side of the sun than when she was on the same side as the earth. When the two planets were at 90 degree angles from each other, a condition which obtained 20 times during the 15 years, the sun-spottedness was about half-way between the two extremes.

"It would appear from these results," Dr. Sanford concludes, "that the influence of Venus on visible sun-spottedness is much greater when the planet is on the opposite side of the sun from the earth than when it is on the same side. The apparent effect of Venus on sun-spots is to repel them to the farthest side of the sun. The phenomena observed by Mrs. Maunder indicate that the earth also repels sun-spots to the farther side of the sun."

SUN-SPOTS

Dr. Sanford points out, there can be little doubt that sun-spots are highly electrified. They are great masses of rotating gases, each mass thousands of miles in radius, in the atmosphere of the solar disc. If these inner planets are similarly electrified it would explain the repulsion.

Dr. Sanford previously concluded that the sun, earth and moon all are negatively electrified. He considers it a fair assumption that the other planets are similarly negatively charged. The proximity of such a negatively charged body would tend to kick the negatively charged rotating mass of gas to the opposite side of the sun, the strength of the kick depending on the size and nearness of the planet. On this basis, Venus would be expected to have the greatest electrical kick of all, owing to its mass and position.

"BIG BILL" REPENTS "King Edward A Fine Young Man"

Toronto, June 23.

"BIG BILL" THOMPSON, former mayor of Chicago, who is on holiday in Toronto, has often criticised the British Royal Family. To-day he wished King Edward a happy birthday. "That's a fine young man you've got there," he said. "He is a real Democrat and leaves a kindly impress wherever he goes. My previous denunciations of England were based on false reports."—Reuter.

THIS HEROIN BUSINESS

Thanks to the publicity being accorded to the subject, there are indications that public opinion is being aroused concerning the necessity of drastic measures being taken in this Colony for the suppression of the heroin-pill traffic. The Government, also, is moving in the matter, principally along the lines of propaganda stressing the devastating effects of the drug on users and exposing the mischievous and totally unfounded belief being put into circulation that heroin is a cure for venereal diseases. The prospect of heavier sentences on those actually caught engaged in the manufacture of pills is also envisaged. Heroin for use by drug addicts is by no means new in the Far East. It first came into notice in Shanghai some fourteen or fifteen years ago, and in Hongkong some three years later. But the popularising of heroin-pills is of comparatively recent growth, particularly in Hongkong. In this connection, it may be noted that in 1931 the total seizures in Hongkong were only 5,000 pills; last year, the figure had grown to the amazing total of approximately 600,000, plus a sufficient quantity of the drug to manufacture at least the same number of pills. This tremendous increase, however, will, it is believed, pale into insignificance when the figures for the first half of the current year are disclosed. Factors which have materially assisted in the expansion of the traffic are that heroin is favoured by reason of its greater convenience in use when compared with opium; that it is cleaner, and does not stain nor induce foul breath, as is the case with opium; that it is cheaper, from twenty to forty cents' worth of pills serving the purpose of approximately fifty to sixty cents' worth of opium; and that the pills are easily concealed, five hundred of them weighing only about four and a half ounces. Pill-smoking is the most common form of indulgence, although instances have been discovered in which the addicts dip the ends of cigarettes in the powdered drug and thus inhale the fumes. So far as the actual manufacture of the pills is concerned, no expensive plant or equipment is needed, it being calculated that a factory can be started by an outlay of from $500 to $1,000. As we have previously pointed out, the extreme mobility of these factories operates against easy detection, and it is obvious that although seizures are increasing almost daily they represent but a small proportion of the pills or drug in circulation. The tracking down of agents and of others behind the scenes is also extremely difficult. There is a belief current that the heads of the

Egypt has set this Example to Hongkong.

WHEN Russell Pasha, head of the Cairo Police, was asked in 1929 by the Prime Minister to form and be in charge of the Central Narcotics Intelligence Bureau, and attempt to deal with the traffic in "white drugs," morphia and its derivatives, the situation in Egypt seemed almost hopeless.

Police statistics revealed that one in every four Egyptian males between the

NOTES OF THE DAY

A new wave of activity is sweeping over the world of drama. This is affecting more particularly the repertory movement. Repertory theatres are now providing most of the trained producers and trained actors for the London stage. Repertory theatres have been established in Liverpool and Birmingham for twenty years, and the fine quality of the productions to be seen there place these theatres practically on the same rank as those of the best London theatres. A new repertory theatre which has just been opened at Bournemouth is expected to meet with equally great success. Another indication of the increased interest in drama is the development of the British Drama League of amateur players. This year's Drama League Festival, which were held in May were most successful. There was a record entry of 747 competitors in the English and 312 entries in the Scottish national festivals. About seven hundred different one-act plays were performed in the two festivals. The winner of the most important prize, the Lord Howard de Walden Trophy, was the Abingdon Guild of Abbey Players, for their performance of Mr. A. I. Talbot's "The Spartan Girl." Since the Drama League Festival was inaugurated in 1926 it has grown considerably in importance, and it has done valuable work in encouraging the writing of one-act plays. The growth of repertory theatres and the amateur stage in general have provided considerable scope for this type of play, which now holds an important place in the realm of British drama.

organisation compensate those engaged in the traffic who may happen to be caught and fined; also that they see to the welfare of the relatives of convicted persons during the period of the latter's incarceration in gaol. If this is so, one useful means which might be employed for the purpose of tracking down those behind the trade would seem to be to keep in contact with the families of imprisoned men, with a view to discovering, if possible, the source of their newly-found wealth. Whilst it is believed that there is not a very heavy export of pills from Hongkong at present, unless drastic measures are taken to stamp out the evil, the Colony may in course of time become a big manufacturing and distributing centre, thereby attracting undesirable worldwide attention. Apart from the manufacture of pills, there are numbers of divans in the Colony, in which the heroin habit may be indulged, but addicts discovered on such premises are not prosecuted, the principal tenant being proceeded against for possession or for permitting the premises, being used as a divan. Heavier sentences, including caning, would appear to be advisable, and, in addition, a big step in the direction of suppressing the evil would be the making of heroin-smoking illegal. In a matter of this kind, nothing short of the most rigorous action will be of avail. The authorities, by so proceeding, would save the Colony from a dreadful scourge and from a most unsavoury reputation which it cannot afford to earn.

"Every day, stories of the smuggling or seizure of enormous quantities of narcotics are more conspicuous in our papers; every day, China and our own small Colony are being flooded with potential destruction; and every day, men and women are being taught deliberately to crave for themselves a living death, and for their children to prepare a future of moral and physical destruction."

ages of twenty and forty was an addict.

These wretched people were not, as one is apt to take for granted, members of the underworld or the half world, but were found in every class of society, professional, commercial, manual labourers, and worst of all, among the farmers, the healthiest and most stable element in the country.

The problem of saving the flower of Egypt's manhood from the poison that was slowly and surely destroying body and soul was appalling in its difficulty. But by 1935 the impossible had been achieved.

How it was done is the theme of Baron Harry d'Erlanger's book ("The Last Plague of Egypt") and its hero is Russell Pasha.

THE book is one which should be read and re-read for many reasons.

In the first place it is more thrilling than any "thriller" and more entertaining and fuller of human interest than most novels. Its second and more profound appeal is to the man who thinks enough to realise what the drug traffic means in terms of human life and happiness.

Many may ask "Am I my brother's keeper?" but if they will read this book, the answer will be, "Yes—For it is my own interest too!"

To those in Hongkong and the Far East, particularly to those who are responsible for the well-being of those whose lives they govern, it has a most vital importance.

Every day stories of the smuggling or seizure of enormous quantities of narcotics are more conspicuous in our papers every day China and our own small Colony are being flooded with potential destruction; and every day men and women are being taught deliberately to crave for themselves a living death, and for their children to prepare a future of moral and physical destruction.

Money that is so hard to earn is spent on vain efforts to satisfy an insatiable desire, and to get the money the addict will stop at nothing. The slow death by hunger of his children is of less importance to him than a short respite from his ceaseless torture.

BULLS AND INNERS

From the Office Butts

"Three-Power Barley" reads a newspaper headline. Breca expected.

We notice there is to be a Teachers' Conference at Honolulu shortly. Professor Langston should be able to imbue them with the right spirit.

A young women's association is in favour of taxing bachelors. We noticed two flappers taxing one unmercifully the other night.

It is stated that Government Servants are not supplied with duty-free petrol. They have to Shell out like the rest of us.

It is said that one feature of New Zealand blue cod is that it looks like haddock. The other feature, we understand, looks like blue cod.

It is asserted that oysters and certain spirits create an explosive combination. Some people do get the wind up after they've partaken.

We should say that smokers on the ferries are not the only people who should pipe down!

"Turkey to Mount Guard Again," says another headline. It's got two drumsticks, anyhow.

If this is what happens to a controlled dollar, we wish it would exceed the speed limit occasionally.

A blue-gold-fish has been discovered. When they find a gold blue-fish that will be news.

Dogs are now definitely banned from bathing beaches. People are, however, still permitted to take their chow along with them.

A woman deportee has returned to the Colony no fewer than thirty times. The police are now of the opinion that they can't banish her.

It is said that storks make good pets. Dear little ones, in fact.

THE picture of the situation in Egypt before the miracle of Russell Pasha's success in the drug question in China. How the parallel can be developed, and the implication to be drawn therefrom must be left to each reader to decide for himself. What cannot be doubted for a moment is that the problem of heroin addiction is an entirely different thing from the use of opium. In the case of opium there may be two opinions as to the amount of damage done. About heroin there is only one possible judgment.

The corruption which is so unfortunate a feature of public life in the Far East is an additional difficulty, and the drug barons with their vast profits ready for use take full advantage of it. Heroin above all drugs is their especial delight because it is so easily prepared, so easily adulterated, so easily carried and so easily distributed, besides, being the drug which most quickly and remorselessly enslaves its victims so that until their death they are an unending source of gain, while their children, with their cruel heritage of poverty and nervous and physical instability, represent a further revenue in the near future.

SPACE is lacking to tell in detail the story of the great achievement in Egypt. Russell Pasha realised at once that two things were essential in the fight, information, and the money with which to buy it.

A grant from Secret Service Funds of £210,000 a year was given for the work. How the money was used to find out all there was to be known about the traffic and the traffickers, and to prove the sources of supply and the routes and methods of transport, must be read in the book itself. No detective story has any more exciting tale to tell than that of this real-life task and its success.

More important still, Russell Pasha realised that as the traffic was international, so too must be the methods of destroying it. Unselfishness and far sightedness must be the watchwords of the fighters. Every scent must be followed no matter where it led.

So the traffic was traced, to its headquarters in Vienna first, then in Bulgaria, then in Turkey, and finally to where it still flourishes vigorously in the great cities of China and Japan.

Even that rather torpid and hardy-roused body, the League of Nations, was moved by Russell Pasha, who in no polite terms put in simple and direct appeal, called for its help. "Gentlemen," he said to them in 1930, "is it fair that Europe should pour its tons of poisons into my country? Egypt is fighting to save herself, but she cannot do it without your help. I know that everyone in this room and every right-minded person out of it is determined to kill this world cancer, and I feel that I can go back to the country which I serve with the certainty that I am leaving the welfare of the people of Egypt in the hands of men of wisdom, courage and determination."

The co-operation of the League played no small part in the final victory.

TOWARDS the end of the book the author gives a brief resume of the present conditions of the drug traffic in China, naming as the principal sources of supply Osaka, Dairen, and the hundreds of small factories in the cities of China itself, so conveniently near the source of supply of the opium which is the raw material of morphia and its deadly derivatives (including heroin). He points out that no one can compete with Chinese production because of this, and because of the economic conditions which enable Chinese-produced drugs to be sold at a price which is absurdly small compared with the cost of those produced in Europe. He reiterates the dangers of the Concessions where the police of the different countries can be played off against each other, and remarks on the powerful political weapon that is offered by the use of drugs, and cites cases in point. And he finally warns us that for the difficulty of the drug problem in the Far East to-day the powers who make profit from the raw opium which gives in the more dangerous products, and in whose "concessions, settlements and leased territories" the evil is flourishing, must be held to bear some part at least of the responsibility.

WILL it be possible for us to look back in ten years at a second victory like that in Egypt? Will Shanghai, or perhaps Hongkong, be remembered with gratitude as the home of another Russell Pasha? One thing is certain. This evil which is so vile that words are too weak to describe it as it really is, is not a concern of Government departments alone.

It is a public responsibility which can only be dealt with by public opinion, strong, unafraid, and generous in its readiness to make any moral or financial effort demanded to help the administrators of the Far East to cope with it.

Feeling must be united and international and no barriers of race or colour must prevent the most untimely co-operation among those of every nation who realise what heroin addiction is, and the destruction it brings not only to the living but to the unborn.

ENTERTAINMENT PAGE

"FIRST NIGHT," ON BEHALF OF HONGKONG LISTENERS, WRITES AN OPEN LETTER

*To The Hongkong Government And, More Particularly,
To The Hongkong Broadcasting Committee*

A PLEA FOR A FAIR DEAL IN BROADCASTING

GENTLEMEN:

This Page and its readers do not consider that you are giving Hongkong listeners a Fair Deal.

Your bargain with the 5,800 licensed listeners in the Colony is a one-sided one.

Each of these 5,800 people have contracted to pay you $12 per annum in return for your programmes. Paying this huge total, naturally, will not cause rejoicing among 5,800 inhabitants of this Colony unless you can give them something approaching value in return.

Do you consider that ZBW programmes for the past twelve months were, in entertainment value, fair return for your customers' cash? Are listeners any better off than they were when you took control of Broadcasting in 1929?

I admit that, since those "early" days of broadcasting in Hongkong, ZBW has improved, despite the fact that some listeners believe that it has deteriorated, and despite the fact that more complaints are pouring into newspapers about the monotony and the anemic quality of programmes than ever before.

But! Five years ago your revenue from Broadcast Licences was only $17,880. Two years ago it was only $32,780. This year you already have 5,800 listeners. They are paying $12 per annum each instead of the $10 you formerly imposed. In two years your revenue from licences has doubled. In five years it has quadrupled.

THAT SHORT-BAWLER

True, you can point with pride to a basketful of reports from Australia, South Africa, Malay, Canada and China about your short-wave programmes, recently inaugurated. But your Hongkong listener, who pays for broadcasting in this Colony, is not interested in the reports from a half-dozen old distilleries in Timbuctoo. He wants better programmes in Hongkong.

You may also point with pride to the fact that you have built a new transmitter, and have under construction a 3½ kilowatt set that will reach to all parts of the world. Doubtless Sir Hubert Wilkins, as he makes his dash under the ice to the North Pole, will be overjoyed to hear the "Voice of Hongkong" broadcasting mid-summer greetings from the tropics. But your Hongkong listener would be far happier if you'd cut off three of those kilowatts and put the money you'll save into a really good Blatnerphone in order to bring the B.B.C.'s electrical transmissions to one-valve Hongkong set-owners.

ANNOUNCERS

Another matter for self-congratulation, doubtless, is that you have so assiduously cultivated the "British" attitude. Your announcers may not employ the faultless pronunciation of one of their B.B.C. contemporaries, but we all must admit that they provide a deadly diction that is a model of decorum.

Your "Model B.B.C." attitude even extends to the creation of an omnipotent oligarchy, you having forgotten, no doubt, that while listeners at home can turn to dozens of Continental stations, your monopoly here is absolute, unless we include the squeals and squawks of average short wave reception as "Entertainment".

You have done all these things. BUT YOU HAVE NOT GIVEN US BETTER PROGRAMMES!

Many listeners blame your Programme Secretary and staff for this state of affairs. That is unfair. They have done comparatively well within the limits under which they must necessarily work.

Broadcasting is a business, just as is selling shoe-laces or sausages. If the tinsmen of the shoe-lace or sausage factories find that something is wrong with their Sales Departments, or hear a swelling tide of adverse rumours about the quality of their products, they search for a remedy. If they don't do so, they soon go out of business or, in the case of a Board of Directors, are replaced by the shareholders by a more aggressive Board. Shareholders usually have that privilege.

It is you, originally appointed by the Government to look after our interests, who are the Directors who mould the policy of this Business of Broadcasting, and it is you who must take the blame and criticism when anything goes wrong.

"GIVE US WHAT WE WANT OR—"

But we, shareholders in ZBW, have no voice in the creation of our own Board of Directors. We cannot go to you and say (unless it be in an Open Letter such as this), "Give us what we want or make way for someone who will."

THE KING BROADCASTS TO-MORROW

TWO important relays scheduled from ZBW this week-end.

To-night you'll hear commentary and results of first two singles matches in Challenge (Australia v. England) for Davis Cup, and of England v. India Test Match. Commentary will be from 9.30 to 9.45 p.m. H.K.T. (If you want more time to Daventry direct) and results will be broadcast from 11.30 to 11.45 p.m. H.K.T.

Second ZBW relay from Daventry is most important since H.M. King Edward made his Accession Broadcast. The ceremony of the unveiling by His Majesty of the Canadian War Memorial at Vimy Ridge in the presence of the President of the French Republic, will be broadcast by Daventry, relayed by ZBW, from 9.30 to 10.30 p.m. H.K.T. to-morrow night.

Ban Old British Pictures In Hongkong

SUGGESTS "FIRST NIGHT"

THAT British film producers and distributors regard Hongkong as one of their vital markets is evident by the fact that four questions were asked in the House of Commons on Wednesday relative to the absence of British pictures in this Colony.

One Member of Parliament urged a special registration tax on foreign films, analogous to the present tax on motor vehicles.

Another politician suggested compulsory exhibition of 20 per cent. British films at each performance.

Heaven forbid that either suggestion be adopted.

You may rest assured that additional taxes on foreign films will not be paid by the American distributor or the Hongkong exhibitor. It will be passed on to you, already more than fairly taxed for your entertainment.

But even that would be preferable to the suggested compulsory exhibition of 20 per cent. British films with each programme. I have seen that scheme tried elsewhere. It benefited nobody but small "quickie" studios, which turned out the most horrible trash that passed as quota films.

Do not imagine for one moment that a 20 per cent. British quota would bring you British feature films. It would mean that the present Rex Smith's, the Mickey Mouse, Silly Symphonies and recent cartoons would be substituted by British "shorts".

We all want to see more British films in Hongkong. Many great pictures have been turned out of British studios in recent years. But we have got to confess that Britain has not yet turned seriously to the all-important subject of short fill-ups for the main features.

There is such a paucity of British "shorts" that most of the distributors (notably London Films) must turn to America to fill up their programmes.

This Parnis has been a consistent supporter of British films, and believes that its constant advocacy of Empire products in no small measure influenced the recent decision of the King's Theatre to show at least one British film each month.

KING'S EXPERIMENT

The King's Theatre has expressed satisfaction with the results it has gained from this experiment, so much so, in fact, that British films have almost predominated in its programmes during the past six weeks.

The success attending the experiment at the King's Theatre shows that British films can stand on their own feet, and can even out-ride American products with organised distribution.

Therein lies the story of the failure of British pictures to adequately penetrate the local market during the past two years.

It is a strange anomaly that hitherto the distribution of major British films has been left almost entirely in the hands of American distributors.

This policy has been somewhat modified in recent months, and several British producers now have direct representation in this Colony.

These producers must support their new Hongkong distributors. To insist, as one American company did with disastrous results when it first entered the Hongkong market, that all previous films, no matter their "age", must be exhibited before modern films are released, would ruin this market.

CUT THE LOSS

Far better to cut the loss on films that are over 12 months old, and start off on par with the Americans.

To release "Man of Aran" at a first-run house at this late date was a mistake—a mistake intensified by the fact that the accompanying News-Reel was one showing the marriage of the Duke and Duchess of Kent!

I believe that British film producers can capture the British market without Government intervention, provided they go about it in the right way.

If British producers won't help their Hongkong distributors, however, and Government intervention on behalf of British films becomes necessary, let Government do all means insist that at least twenty per cent of the feature programmes exhibited in this Colony be British.

But if Government takes this step, it must protect the Hongkong public, and at the same time the British producer, by banning from Hongkong cinema houses all British films that are over 12 months old.

NEW FILMS THE WEEK-END YOU'VE ALWAYS DREAMT ABOUT HAS ARRIVED

THIS is a week-end of superlative entertainment at both first and second run houses. It is a long time—certainly not this summer—since this Page has been able to wax enthusiastic about entertainment in general.

You can take your pick of four absolutely first class new pictures and of three equally good second and third runs.

Among the first runs, if you want something light, choose "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town", at the Alhambra.

If you want powerful drama of the type that makes you remember a picture for a long time, choose "Fury", which ends its first run at the King's to-day.

If you want the polished acting of the type that wins the Academy of Arts prize for best performances, coupled with everything that is top-notch in motion picture entertainment, make "Dangerous" at the Queen's your choice.

If you want to see one of the best British films shown in Hongkong this year, book your seats for "Thirty-nine Steps" at the King's to-morrow.

My advice is to make this a week-end of sheer happiness by seeing as many of these pictures as you can.

Or, if you are a second-run fan, and prefer to see the above when they come to the smaller theatres, see either "Captain Blood" at the Star, "Frisco Kid" at the Oriental, or "Robin Hood of El Dorado" at the Oriental to-morrow.

Reviews on Page 14

ed that you are no longer appointed by the Government but, as vacancies occur, co-opt from the ranks of those whose interests may be diametrically opposed to the interests of the majority of listeners.

Neither, so far as we can ascertain, have the dealers representation on your Committee. Most of our dealers do not rely upon the sale of small receivers capable of tuning in only ZBW for their business existence, nevertheless many of them are greatly affected financially by the success or failure of your efforts to sustain public interest in broadcasting.

Among your numbers we can find no names of people associated with Hongkong's amateur entertaining societies, rich fields for talent. You have no representative of the Philharmonic Society, which once offered to help you out with your programmes, with the Amateur Dramatic Society, the Chorus Club, the Army and Navy or the European Y.M.C.A. institutions which could do incalculable good for broadcasting in this Colony.

STATELY SECRECY

Without representatives from any of the above bodies, to whom do you turn when you consider future programme policy? When you meet in august and stately secrecy, what do you discuss?

Have your discussions on programmes been so nebulous that you have been unable to provide us with better programmes than those emanating from ZBW in this present year of grace?

Have you ever considered the modernisation of your methods of broadcasting by substituting electrical transmissions for some of the overlastingly reiterated records in your library?

Have you ever considered interchanging recorded programmes with other Far Eastern broadcasting stations which, somehow or the other, always seem to have something fresh and original.

HONGKONG'S TALENT

Do you think that you have made a genuine effort to round up Hongkong's available talent for studio programmes? What about amateur night (great idea employed in other parts of the world to find talent), request nights, studio plays, running commentaries, the Navy and Army?

Have you ever sent a representative along to one of these concerts sponsored by Services social committees? You'd be surprised at the wealth of talent. Don't you think you could award a teeny-weeny prize for a best studio play?

Have you ever considered the oft-repeated plea (by dozens of listeners and by all the dealers) for morning programmes?

You have done none of these things. Therefore, you should allow some fresh blood to be injected into the somewhat moribund Hongkong Broadcasting Committee.

IDEAL COMMITTEE

Our ideal Committee would be one that would represent:

The Government;
The Churches and Schools;
The Amateur Dramatic Society;
The Philharmonic Society;
The Army and Navy;
The Y.M.C.A. and kindred organisations;
The Chinese;
The Sporting Bodies;
The Newspapers;
The Dealers;
and last, but not least,
THE LISTENERS OF HONGKONG.

LETTER

"Announce More", Says
Reader To Broadcasters

SINCE most of ZBW's programme consists of recordings, couldn't they include a bit more announcing about the discs. Of-times I've felt like purchasing certain records for my radiogram, but cannot find the particular record played by ZBW. Is it that ZBW gets its records from England before they're stocked here. If so, where can I purchase them? Radioman.

Most of ZBW records are purchased or borrowed locally, and can be procured from local dealers.

Naming a child is a problem, so is Naming a HORSE

IT is sometimes said that "madmen name racehorses," but actually this problem, and it is often a real problem, receives very careful thought.

Tom, Dick, or Harry may be good enough for an owner's son, but his horse's name must be more carefully chosen, and many a thoroughbred testifies in its name to its owner's wit.

The name should reflect those of both the sire (father) and dam (mother), and must be original.

The Turf's most famous names can never be used again, and even the least successful thoroughbred cannot have its name duplicated during its lifetime.

These unofficial rules, of course, are not always followed, and a horse may be given a name for any, or no, particular reason.

Ballywellbroke

The Aga Khan, for instance, is fond of Eastern place-names for his string. Abyssinia was one name registered last season. Put-and-take was another choice when that game was popular.

Where the "classic" practice is followed of playing on the names of the horse's sire and dam the cleverest and most attractive names are possible.

The late King Edward named one of his string Rainfall. It was sired by Clwyd out of Deluge.

Backers will sympathise with the man who hit on the name Ballywellbroke, by Ballyferis out of The Beggar, and it was surely a Londoner who named a chestnut colt, by Duke of Buckingham out of Avary, Bifcuge Walk.

Lawyer's Choice

A lawyer decided on Barrister by Legatee out of Lead On.

Culbertson—by Winalot out of Greta Bridge; Cornered—by Son-in-Law out of Comedy Star (a playwright's choice?); and Devastation—by Cyclonic out of Helen's Trail—are other clever names of horses now in training.

Probably the best of all is Mr. Crum Ewing's Mrs. Grundy—by Embargo out of Bachelor's Fun!

"Frank" names cause a great deal of confusion, but when it comes to calling the odds even more amusement.

An Irish jumper recently run in this country is called Niederghonderhausen.

Wrongun

Sir F. Towle owns Aitred Sios. This is correctly pronounced, roughly, Arty-good Shee-s.

The bookmakers, all but the Scots, call it Agad Haggis.

The Aga Khan's Badr-ul-Molk is popularly known as Bad Egg and Milk.

Two horses owned by Mr. H. T. Hanks lived up to their names and gave the Nottingham crowd a good laugh a year ago.

Wrongun, after falling and unseating his jockey, continued with the rest of the field, and finished up by jumping the enclosure rails and scattering the crowd.

The same afternoon Righton won the Jellison Handicap Steeplechase.

Make your child Independent

ONE of the first lessons the modern infant school teaches is independence. Most children would learn it much more quickly if only their parents would help them at home.

Once home from school, you should plan little jobs of work for them, always be careful it is something he or she can do, because it is the feeling of mastery over the job which is important.

Little shopping errands are quite within the child's scope. An attractive basket will give the youngster the thrill of ownership, and ensure a safe delivery.

Teach Them to be Useful

IF money must be carried, a purse or small hand-bag, deep enough to prevent the money from jumping out, will give the child a feeling of responsibility in this direction.

Teach your child how to clean his own shoes, using a stiff brush and a polishing cloth, and watch the delight with which he sets to work.

Girls will spend many hours holding imaginary tea-parties. Now is the time to encourage them to help with meal-time preparations. Putting the plates on the table is sufficient for a beginning. Next might come putting the cakes on the stand. Be sure you do not set a further task before the preceding one is accomplished easily.

Watching the Wheels go Round

BOYS are fascinated by things that work. Let your boy turn the handle of the mangle machine. He can't have his hands on the handle and inside as well.

Cleanliness is an ever-present problem at this age. Soap, brush, towel—all one's own—make washing an important business.

Something of their Own

CAPS and coats have a distressing habit of lying about on chairs. Place a peg within the child's reach, paint it a bright attractive colour, and it will be used regularly.

In the garden planting time is here again. Give your child its own corner of the garden. Digging and planting are both positive actions.

The growth of plants will be keenly watched. Watering and weeding are later activities in this direction.

Little things, they appear unimportant, but they will give your child a sense of power and usefulness.

Oil...

THE whole face of Britain may soon be altered if a group of experts near Portsmouth are successful in their quest. They are searching for oil.

Suspended from a derrick 136ft. high, a huge drill is smashing its way through rock at a cost of nearly £3 a foot.

The experts hope to see, one of these mornings, a dark, oozy liquid with an unpleasant smell coming out at the top.

Thirty-nine oil prospecting licences were granted in Britain in 1935. Geologists are agreed that the greater part of Britain lies along the main production belt of the world's petroleum deposits.

Hardstoft Well, in Derbyshire, which is said to have a flow equal in quality to the finest Pennsylvanian crude oil, has produced nearly three-quarters of a million gallons since 1919.

At Castleton, Derbyshire, in 1931 a flow was discovered so great that it astonished the experts.

Dear Kiddies,
Most of you found it more difficult to paint bird than flowers; didn't you? None the less, there were some excellent efforts sent in by the Seniors, in which section the prize goes to Pauline Abbott (aged 13), 361 The Peak, for a beautiful study of a flamingo. Others who came near winning were Maisie Law (robin), Vivienne Churn and Isobel Morrison (kingfishers), and Margie Xavier (yellow-hammer). In the Junior Section, lots of kiddies got the names correctly, but the best effort was that of Kathleen Morrison (aged 7), 7 East Block, Queen's Road.

Will Pauline and Kathleen call at the "Telegraph" office for their prizes? Commented, for good work, in addition to the seniors already named, are Fernando Alves, Zuleima Ribeiro, Elsa Laurel, Marjorie Tod, and Gloria. Going among the Seniors, and Shick Dawood Bux, Binoy Deb, Tony Xavier, Violetta dos Remedios, Charlie Churn, Ricardo Malig, Leslie Giles, Nina Laurel and Baby Soares among the Juniors.

This week, children, I am giving you another crossword competition. Most of the clues are about the story of Cinderella, which, of course, you all know. No colouring is needed. There will again be two prizes—one for kiddies from 10 to 14, and the other for those under 10. Neatness, age and correctness will be taken into account in awarding the prizes. Entries must be addressed to Uncle Eddie, c/o "Hongkong Telegraph," and must reach him not later than 4 p.m. on Wednesday.

Uncle Eddie.

Try your brain on this one

THE illustration represents a chess-board with a rook (chess players' slang for castle) in one corner. It is going to make a journey and is rather perplexed about it.

The rook here makes twenty-one moves, in the course of which journey it visits every square of the board once, and once only, stopping at the square marked 10 at the end of its tenth move and ending at the square marked 21.

Two consecutive moves cannot be made in the same direction, that is to say, you must make a turn after every move. A rook can only be moved vertically or horizontally.

More Snuff is taken to-day

SNUFF may never regain its old glory, but the figures show that the habit of snuff-taking is becoming increasingly popular with men—and women.

In the last ten years the consumption has almost doubled; nearly one million pounds of snuff are now being consumed each year. It is a powdered preparation of tobacco.

Influenza epidemics send up the snuff sales figures. Many snuff-takers can boast of never having had a cold, and in the largest Sheffield snuff mill none of the employees has ever suffered from influenza.

But a month or two ago a club for snuff-takers was unable to hold its regular meeting as half its members were down with flu.

Snuff has also a reputation for being beneficial to the eyes and the nervous system.

Napoleon's favourite snuff was violet-scented. His aide-de-camp reported in his account of Waterloo that Napoleon, all through the battle, continually dipped into his snuff-box and hurried away at the end with his head drooped over it.

John Hardham, the most famous snuff-maker of all, who supplied expensive snuffs to Edward Gibbon, David Garrick, Joshua Reynolds, and the other notabilities of the eighteenth century, from his shop in Fleet-street, made a fortune during his life-time.

It still remains a wealthy trade, though the romance which once surrounded it has gone.

A modern snuff-mill turns out packets of snuff at more than one hundred a minute—to sell for a few pence each. Yet only three years ago the will of a Sheffield snuff-maker disclosed a fortune of more than £300,000.

Cheap water facilities made Sheffield the centre of the snuff-making trade in 1760. It still holds that position.

How Colony Cares For Its Juvenile Wrong-doers

A VISIT TO THE REMAND HOME FOR BOYS

"Telegraph" Staff Reporter

If you are ever bored with your work, disillusioned about life or temporarily depressed with the futility of things in general, here is the tonic.

All the boys sent to the Remand Home come from the Juvenile Court, either on being sentenced (for purposes of discipline) or for enquiries regarding their parentage, etc. The Home is housed in the building which was for many years the Bellios Reformatory.

Take the No. 5 bus down to Causeway Bay and spend an hour at the Remand Home for Male Juveniles where about 50 youngsters are serving their "sentences". A talk with the genial supervisor, Mr. C. P. Fallon, and a round of the buildings watching the boys at work and play will convince you that here at least is an institution which is doing a worth-while job.

Part of the fascination of the place is bound up with the personality of Mr. Fallon. He is enthusiastic about the high walled-in acre or so where he spends 24 hours of his day. Furthermore, the boys reciprocate by a willing respect and discipline which makes Wardens and lockers unnecessary.

The entrance to the Home is somewhat forbidding. High white walls run completely round the building which stands just above the French Hospital. A policeman is on duty at the gate, which is locked as soon as you enter. After that you leave the prison atmosphere outside and enter a place which to many of the youngsters is a luxury they are loth to leave.

I signed the visitors' book. I was the 160th in the last 16 months. In reply to my query, Mr. Fallon explained that all parents and boys' friends, Y.M.C.A. lecturers and probation officers entered their names. Nobody visits the Home for philanthropic purposes only.

At Mr. Fallon said: "What could they do? The Government supplies everything and visitors could do nothing for the boys. We should be glad if the public took an interest in our rattan work, though. They could come any afternoon and buy or order articles."

RATTAN SHOP
He took me along to the rattan shop. A dozen youngsters under an instructor were busily and quietly weaving rattan into baskets and mats. They were clean and appeared contented.

"We don't put anybody here with a sentence less than three months," said the supervisor. "It takes a conscientious boy that long to learn the work. All these boys in the rattan shop are up for larceny."

"Look at that youngster. He is no more than 11 years old, well educated, son of rich parents and of a superior class altogether. He simply won't stay home. He doesn't like his step-mother, so he runs away and gets into trouble. When he comes here he is absolutely tractable and willing. Step-mothers are as great a trouble here as they are at home in England."

THE CLASSROOM
We went along to the class room from which the sound of ringing young voices chanting Chinese had been coming for some time.

A youngster stood beside a blackboard on which a Chinese lesson was written and as he moved the pointer up and down, the class of seventeen followed him aloud. It was an elementary lesson about a large house which was for rent.

The boys sat at a little desk each, but as the supervisor came in and shouted "Attention!" they stood up smartly.

The supervisor explained that the boy at the blackboard knew all the characters and he was taking the lesson. The Chinese constable in the room was the real instructor, but the boys got a great kick from airing their knowledge to their less-informed school mates.

"This little chap leaves to-morrow," he said, pointing to a sturdy boy with a nice open face and clear skin. "He was on the streets when he got into trouble fighting another boy. When he came here he knew nothing, but now he knows all the characters and is the smartest boy in the school. Only nine years old. He goes out to-morrow, but I shall have him back again, I expect!"

THEY RETURN
When the boy has parents or relatives we send him to them after he has finished his term with us, but they often get into trouble and return. When parents can do nothing with them, or if they have no parents, they generally go to the Aberdeen Industrial School where they are well looked after until they are grown up. We can only take 50 boys here and they must be between seven and 16 years of age, English reckoning. At Aberdeen they are over that age.

The class was instructed to proceed and the voices rose again as the pointer went over the blackboard. The boys were quite interested in their work and, remembering how I used to enjoy the pause which a visitor to the class room always brought, I felt they were somewhat unappreciative of my call.

"There's a chap who is hopeless. He will finish up in Aberdeen, I expect," said the supervisor pointing to a quite innocent looking youth of 14 or so. "The fellow next him is one of the 'Fet Kei' or 'Flying Squad'. He used to smuggle tobacco and made 30 or 40 steamer trips before he was caught—hence the name."

WASHING DAY
Outside the class-room fluttered an array of garments hung up to dry.

Big Flying Boat Is Coming to Hongkong

17-TON MONSTER HAS TAKEN TO THE AIR

"Telegraph" Special Representative

I UNDERSTAND that Imperial Airways will substitute one of the giant 17-ton, 24-passenger flying boats on the Singapore-Hongkong service within six months.

This decision has been arrived at, I understand, in view of the possibility that first-class mail will be carried throughout the Empire by air mail in the near future.

The first of Imperial Airways 28 new flying boats has already taken to the air.

A trial flight was made at Rochester on July 4, reports by this week's air mail indicating that the take-off, handling of the machine whilst in the air and landing being extremely satisfactory.

This Imperial Airways machine, the first of the new fleet, is the largest flying boat in the world.

It has four engines, weighs 17 tons, and is equipped to carry 24 passengers by day, and sleep 16 by night, whilst travelling at a top speed of 200 miles-an-hour. It can also carry about three tons of mail, much more than at present enters Hongkong by steamer.

When the new fleet is completed, the flying boats will be operated practically every Imperial Airways overseas service.

FIVE DAYS TO LONDON
A bi-weekly service from Croydon to the Cape will bring South Africa to within four days of London. A bi-weekly service to Australia will reduce the transit time half way round the world to seven days.

Passengers will be able to journey from India to England in 2½ days and from Singapore to England in four days.

You will be able to travel from Hongkong to London in five days in more comfort than you could obtain on a train.

It is probable that Hongkong will see the first of the new flying boats on an experimental flight in December.

The boat is undergoing its trials this week, the preliminary flight being an unofficial one.

Immediately after the trials it will be handed over to Imperial Airways by Messrs. Short Bros., and will then leave on an experimental flight to the Mediterranean. Other experimental flights to more distant centres, including Hongkong, will be made at a later date.

Farewell Appearance At Gripps To-night

Hongkong's glittering reception of Yola and Paul on their return appearance at the Hongkong Hotel last Saturday night prompted these two favourites to stay over in this Colony for another week.

As a result, dance-goers will have an opportunity again to-night to see these master eccentric dancers in action in entirely new numbers. Dinner dances are proving remarkably popular at the Hongkong Hotel this summer, despite the heat, and with the additional attraction to-night of Yola and Paul, there should be heavy bookings.

In addition to to-night's appearances, Yola and Paul have been booked by the Hongkong Hotel Management to appear at a Special Tea Dance to be held in the Roof Garden to-morrow evening from 5 to 7.30 p.m.

KING TO BROADCAST TO-MORROW

RELAY BY ZBW

HONGKONG listeners will be able to hear His Majesty the King for the second time during His Reign to-morrow night.

The ceremony of the unveiling by His Majesty of the Canadian War Memorial at Vimy Ridge in the presence of the President of the French Republic will be broadcast by Daventry, and relayed by Z.B.W.

The event marks the consummation of a project which was conceived after the War and has taken over ten years to complete.

There are nearly 12,000 names on the base of the Memorial, which is dedicated to the Canadian missing who have no known graves. Over six thousand pilgrims from Canada have gone to Europe to take part in the ceremony, and fifteen hundred from Great Britain. It is anticipated that at least 100,000 people will take part in the ceremony.

The actual ceremony by the King will take the form of unveiling a figure at the base of the Memorial. Both the English and French languages (the latter for the benefit of French-Canadians) will be used in the service, which, together with the incidental proceedings, will be described by a commentator.

All those who are associated with the broadcast will have to be dressed in white, in order that they may be in harmony with the white stone of the Memorial, and will be as inconspicuous as possible, in order to avoid striking a jarring note or detracting from the spectators' interest in the ceremony.

Daventry's broadcast of the Ceremony, which will be relayed by ZBW, will commence at 9.30 p.m. to-morrow night on Transmission 3, employing the following transmitters:

Youthful and expressive hands should not be confined to the Dietrichs, Garbos and Crawford. They are every woman's birthright. Just a little care and attention is all that is necessary to have lovely hands.

Let us assume that your hands are run down. What steps can we take to bring them up to par? First of all, the skin is probably roughened and cracked. Here's a treatment that will banish that in no time at all. At night, after you've washed your hands in warm water, massage a liberal portion of a skin and tissue cream into them. Without removing the cream, slip on a pair of loose gloves for the night. The inexpensive white cotton gloves worn by painters and carpenters will do splendidly. The cream will work its way down into the cracks of the skin and nourish the oil glands which have been dried out by too much water. Several treatments like this will show miraculous results.

Secondly, perhaps your hands have become reddened. A bleach mask will fix that. Yes, the same preparation which you use on your face to lighten freckles and make your complexion even in tone. Use it about twice a week until you've whitened the skin sufficiently. Then just once a week will be enough.

Now that your hands are soft and white, it's your business to keep them that way. Hand lotion is just the thing. Have a bottle of it handy and massage a few drops of it into your hands every time they come into contact with water. You'll never be without it!

Behind each Max Factor product stands a guarantee of PURITY PROTECTION. That is the reason 96% of screen stars use it exclusively.

SNAKES AT MURDER TRIAL

Los Angeles, July 16.
IN court here to-day a scientist plunged his hand into the jaws of two rattlesnakes and extracted poison. Then with a hypodermic syringe he injected the venom into two guinea-pigs, and the court watched them die.

This drama was enacted at the trial of Robert S. James, the red-headed "Bluebeard barber," accused of murdering his fifth wife, Mary Emma Busch James, aged 28.

District Attorney Fitts, who is conducting the prosecution, places his main reliance on the rattlesnakes.

One of them is 4ft. and the other 6ft. in length, and according to testimony are the identical snakes used by James to procure his wife's death so that he might collect £1,000 insurance money.

IN SNAKES' JAWS

The district attorney had carefully selected the court scene. In the presence of Dr. Gustav Boehme, toxicologist, and of three men from "Snake Joe's" reptile farm, he had the snakes lifted from the pull and clamped down.

Into their distended jaws Dr. Boehme thrust a gloved hand, seized and "milled" the exposed fangs of their venom.

Attorney Fitts then asked the three men from the reptile farm: "Do you know these two snakes, which on Sunday, July 20, 1935, were purchased from you by Charles H. Hope, known as 'Sailor Chuck' Hope, and which were returned to your farm the following Sunday by Hope, who demanded refund of the sales price on the ground that their poison sacs had gone dry?"

The three men solemnly affirmed: "We do."

Attorney Fitts then proceeded: "Do you know them to be the same snakes mentioned in the indictment, which charges that Robert S. James—or Major Liebman, by true name—did on Sunday, August 4, 1935, in the kitchen of his home at La Canada, Los Angeles, bind and gag Mary Emma Busch James, and with the help of Charles Hope then force her bare left foot into a pail containing the snakes and hold her in this position until the snakes had buried their fangs in her toes and propelled their venom into her bloodstream?"

Again the three men chorused: "We do."

SYRINGE INJECTION

Photographers snapped the scene. A man stepped forward with a guinea-pig. Dr. Boehme filled a hypodermic syringe with opaque white juice from one of the snakes, drove the point into the guinea-pig's thigh, pressed the plunger of the syringe. The guinea-pig died.

Venom from snake No. 2 then caused the death of a second guinea-pig.

The action of the District Attorney was prompted by the legal necessity of proving to judge and jury that the bite of rattlesnakes is fatal.

Even with this proof forthcoming his case is not complete; he has to meet the ingenious defence of James, who proposes to testify that the subjection of his wife to snake-bites was not actuated by murderous intent, but was done at her request because Betty Davis in "Dangerous," the role that won for her the award of the Academy as the best actress of the year.

PLEA TO STOP A DIVORCE

JUDGE ON THE RIGHTS OF THE "WOMAN NAMED"

AN important ruling on the rights of the "woman named" during divorce proceedings was given in the Divorce Court recently by Mr. Justice Bucknill.

The identity of the woman was not disclosed the case being in the list under initials only.

She claimed that under the Supreme Court of Judicature Act, 1925, she had a right, as a member of the public, to show cause why a decree nisi should not be made absolute; and the question whether she had such a right was argued as a point of law.

The respondent in the divorce suit, the husband, who was alleged to have committed adultery with the woman, applied to have her appearance in the case struck out; and his wife, the petitioner in the suit, associated herself with the application.

He believed that it would prevent the birth of a child.

The day after Mr. James was found dead in a fish-pond with marks of snake-bites on her foot and with an apparently grieving widower weeping over her body, an unopened letter in her handwriting was found at her house.

"SOMETHING BIT ME"

It read: "Dear Sir,—Just a line to let you know I'm pretty sick. My leg is swollen. Something bit me this morning and I cut my toe yesterday. Am having lots of bad luck. But my daddy will be home early to-night, and he takes such good care of me."

The Public Prosecutor will call as his most dangerous witness Charles Hope, the sailor who has already pleaded guilty to aiding and abetting James in the murder by procuring the snakes and assisting in exposing the woman's leg to their bites. This witness will be succeeded by an array of women who succumbed to the fascination of the "Bluebeard Barber."

James has bewildered the authorities by his contradictory statements about his various wives. To the police he has described the dead woman as his fifth wife; but to one alienist he referred to her as his sixth, and to another as his seventh.

HOTEL EVIDENCE

The divorce suit was heard last June, and the only evidence given related to a stay at an hotel. The wife did not apply to have the decree made absolute at the end of six months.

Subsequently the "woman named" appeared, as a member of the public, to show why the decree should not be made absolute.

She filed an affidavit that she and the husband agreed to supply evidence for divorce; that, in pursuance of that agreement, they went to the hotel, but that adultery was not committed.

The husband replied with an affidavit that he committed adultery with the woman and that there was no collusion arrangement between himself and his wife.

Mr. Justice Bucknill said that if proceedings for divorce were a personal matter, it would be unjust, and contrary to public policy—which requires that litigation shall not be unduly prolonged—that a person in the position of the woman named should be allowed to intervene after a decree nisi.

"But," he continued, "it is a matter of public interest that a decree for dissolution of marriage should not be obtained on evidence which has been manufactured so as to indicate adultery where none has in fact taken place."

RIGHTS OF THE PUBLIC

A "woman named" did not become a party to the proceedings until she applied and obtained leave to intervene in the suit.

More service of the petition on her did not make her a party.

In this case she did not obtain such leave before the grant of the decree nisi; therefore she had not lost the right given to members of the public by law.

The husband's application to have the appearance of the woman named struck out was accordingly dismissed.

CHINA
LTD.DELEGATES OF PACIFIC NATIONS TO DISCUSS CHINA

San Francisco, July 21.

THE situation created in the Far East by Japan's penetration and occupation of portions of China will be one of the leading questions discussed this year at the biennial session of the Institute of Pacific Relations.

The meeting will be held in Yosemite National Park from August 15 to 29.

It is expected from every point of view that the sessions will be the most important held since the Institute was established.

Every important country in or bordering on the Northern Pacific area will be represented by large delegations ranging from 25 to 35 members. The delegates will consist largely of important government officials, political leaders, university professors and leaders in the political, economic and intellectual life of the Pacific nations.

The countries participating in the convention will include China, Japan, the Philippines, Hawaii, Canada, Great Britain, Soviet Russia and the United States.

Although not strictly a Pacific country Great Britain will be allowed to participate because of the importance of her interests in the Pacific and because of her dominions there.

SOVIET TO HELP

Unusual importance is attached to the meeting owing to the fact that this will be the first time that Soviet Russia has participated. Although the Soviet has established contact with the European nations through the League of Nations, this will be her first contact in an international convention of the Pacific countries.

The degree of importance in Pacific affairs, due to her development towards the Pacific region and her relations with China and Japan, make her presence at the session one of unusual importance. It is believed by authorities back of the Institute that the biennial convention will thus permit of an open forum for a free discussion of all the problems that have been created by Russia's growing importance on the Pacific coast.

As regards Japan's penetration of China, it is understood the discussions of the convention will cover not only the creation of Manchukuo but also the present movement of Japanese troops into Tientsin, Peiping and towards the interior of China proper.

LEAGUE REPRESENTED

As in the past the proceedings of the convention will be followed by an official observer of the League of Nations. This year Pierre de Lanux has been chosen for the task. Lanux first served as a member of the league secretariat at Geneva, but for the past ten years has been in charge of the League's branch office at Paris.

He has already made lecture tours of the United States and is a competent authority on Far Eastern and Pacific region questions.

While the League of Nations plays no part in the official work of the Institute of Pacific Relations it keeps a close tab on all discussions for its own information and guidance when Far Eastern questions come before the league.

The presence of an official observer of the League of Nations at the convention is merely a part of the former's regular effort to co-ordinate all international efforts in so far as is possible for the attainment of the League's ends. It does not, however, intervene directly in the affairs of an autonomous organization.

POLITICAL REACTION

Besides the political reaction of all the countries interested in Japan's

TEST-SHOOT FOR ARMY'S NEW GUN

LEWIS BEATS BREN

Aldershot, July 15.
THE Bren, the new light automatic gun with which the troops are to be armed, was seen in action at Ash Vale. This automatic weapon is to supplant the Lewis gun.

The committee of the Aldershot Command Small Arms Meeting arranged that units armed with the new gun should compete alongside units using the Lewis.

The result was a surprise. The pairs armed with the Lewis made much higher scores.

It would be unfair to judge the Bren on one day's shooting. Units have done comparatively little shooting with the Bren. They will soon learn that they have a super-automatic weapon and when thoroughly mastered the standard of its performance will be greatly advanced.

It was clear that for handiness, for getting quickly into action and for rapid magazine changing, it is incomparably the better weapon. These and other attributes make the new weapon far superior to the Lewis.

penetration of China other political developments and their possible effects, such as the freedom of the Philippines will come in for full discussion.

Two other broad fields of Pacific interests will also be gone into. These include the economic relations of the Pacific nations and the cultural phases of the Orient as brought into contact with the culture of the west.

The Institute of Pacific Relations was organized after the Russian revolution and since then has had biennial conventions, as well as numerous regional conventions in an effort to improve the relations of all Pacific area countries.

This year, the coming convention was preceded by a California regional meeting held at Mills College, Oakland, from June 23 to July 1. It was attended by many of the delegates who will represent their countries at the biennial convention in Yosemite National Park.

While the delegations of the various countries participating will in a general way be composed entirely of delegates direct from the countries themselves, China this year had decided to include one Chinese delegate from the United States. This is Dr. N. Wing Mah, who did research work at the University of California before becoming a member of the faculty of the institution.

He was appointed to serve by Dr. Hu Hauh, China's leading modern philosopher, who will head the Chinese delegation. Dr. Hauh will proceed later to the Tricentenary celebration at Yale where he will be given an honorary degree.

Institute authorities hope to have the Japanese delegation headed by former Foreign Minister Shidehara, who is now retired.

The United States delegation will include Chester Rowell, editor of the San Francisco Chronicle, president of the California Association for the League of Nations and authority on Far Eastern affairs.

Mexico will be the only northern Pacific country that will not be represented at the conference.—United Press.

"Ransom" For Countess Is Marriage

Warsaw, July 15.
Countess Marina Rumowska, dark-haired, twenty-year-old Warsaw society beauty, believed to have been abducted three days ago by Tadek Minakow, a Warsaw student, will be freed, says the captor, "only if she marries me."

Twenty-six-year-old Tadek fell violently in love with the countess. But his repeated proposals of marriage were refused.

So, while Countess Marina was on her way to swim in the Vistula, he threw a rug over her head, hustled her into a car, and raced off. Her parents received the "marriage ultimatum" in a telegram from Posen, West Poland.

ETHIOPIAN GENERAL
RETURNSSENT FROM LONDON
BY THE EMPEROR

Cairo, July 12.
General Makonnen, one of the Abyssinian Army leaders, arrived here this morning from London.—Reuter.

An official at the Ethiopian Legation in London stated General Makonnen is Governor of Boulahar, of which Goro is the capital. He is going to Goro from Cairo to resume his duties as Governor of the Province.

"General Makonnen went from Goro to the Ogaden, and with General Nassibu led the armies on the Southern front. When the Emperor went to Jerusalem, General Makonnen accompanied him. He left for Cairo at the end of last week."

An army, it has been reported, is massing in Western Abyssinia to resist the Italians.

Perry Keeps Flag Flying At Wimbledon

The next three games, winning Perry's service to love for 6-5. In the second set Perry changed his tactics somewhat, and, while never neglecting the chance of a sprint for the net, played his baseline rallies in a rather restrained fashion. He found that Budge was making a good many errors (for him), and encouraged him, in a sense, to make them. He went to 4-1, and ought to have been 5-1, but Budge saved his service game from 0-40 and went for Perry tooth and nail, with the result that the Englishman found himself leading only by 5-4.

However, in the next game Budge obviously served two double faults, and Perry brought off a lovely backhand pass. The set was accordingly Perry's at 6-4, and we breathed again.

CRITICAL FOURTH SET

The third set was Perry's at 6-3, in spite of several faults which did not, however, appear to bother him. The winning of Budge's service for 6-3 made him safe this time. But in the fourth set we found ourselves again more or less on tenterhooks. Budge went to 2-0, and later to 4-2, and then Perry had two very opportune net-corders to help him to 3-4 against Budge's service, and soon they were 4-2.

In winning Budge's service again Perry had another net-corder, besides putting a beauty down the side-line, and also saw Budge play two into the net. Then came Perry's service, and with it the match by 6-7, 6-4, 6-3, 6-4 to the sound of joyous and prolonged applause. They had been at it for about an hour and 35 minutes.

Before this, as I have indicated, von Cramm beat Austin by 6-7, 6-3, 2-6, 6-3. I think the score just about reflects the superiority of the winner, who all through the match played what was in reality the more powerful and more aggressive game.

MISTAKEN TACTICS

There is an old-fashioned saying to the effect that some people do not know on which side their bread is buttered. I am convinced that Austin would be an even greater player than he is if he would only realize his baseline game, however fluent and fascinating it may appear to be, is nothing like as potent as one might think. He hits the ball remarkably hard and yet does not seem able to plant it really deep. That is, perhaps, one of the reasons why he does not advance to the net more often; but whenever he succeeds in sending home a really adequate attacking shot, it does not always seem to occur to him to make the point for the net which he obviously indicated. The net which he obviously indicated, the net which he obviously indicated, the net which he obviously indicated.

against the service. Eventually von Cramm, having beaten Austin for 5-3, emerged with 6-5, and proceeded later to win Austin's service again for 6-0. In the second set Austin was lucky to win his service for 2-2. Von Cramm then won his service with the aid of a net-corder, and later won Austin's for 6-3, which he consolidated at 6-3 after Austin, striving valiantly, had been within a point of game. The third set, in which von Cramm apparently took a breather and did not persevere after finding himself 4-1 down, was Austin's at 6-2. The fourth set was a bit of a toss-up between the three games were going against the service, but after von Cramm had emerged with a 3-1 lead, he held it to go out with the capture of another of Austin's service games at 6-3. I say without fear of contradiction that this was a very fine performance.

Girls' School on Record

ONE of the most devastating things that can happen to anyone is to take a friend to see your favourite comedian and find that your companion is completely unmoved.

I am risking this same humiliation by recommending to you a record by Arthur Marshall in the Columbia list. Marshall is billed only as "in his famous 'Schoolgirl Impressions,' not as a comedian. This is a little misleading because he is not a mimic or animal imitator as his billing might suggest, but, indeed, a great parodist.

Arthur Marshall, by profession a master at a famous public school, is known to the broadcasting public by his little sketches in those monthly, quick-fire reviews that Nelson Keys used to play in before he went and got himself into a bit at the Saville Theatre. And if you remember those reviews you will remember how Marshall created a whole gallery of funny middle-aged women—bridge playing, bazaar opening and school-teaching.

In his first record (Columbia DB 1646) he tells a superbly typical "School Girl's Story." You are not, I think, expected to laugh out loud at this, but it will give you plenty of chuckles and not a little opportunity to admire his Marshall's school marm voice, and to his extraordinary acquaintance with the style and matter of girls' school stories.

The other side, "The Head Mistress," is more satirical. The character is the eternal head, and necessarily only female, whose end of term addresses are full of team spirit and Empire.

building and all the other fatuous clichés that schoolchildren have inflicted on them to make them appreciate their holidays the more. Columbia must record many more of Arthur Marshall's studies of busy-ness.

JUNE, apart from all this rain, which is doing my garden no end of good, has brought at least one other consolation for its unusual climatic behaviour. Elizabeth Schumann appears in the whole gallery of funny middle-aged women—bridge playing, bazaar opening and school-teaching.

All on one record, she has given up ballads and bird-notes, and instead sings four Brahms' songs (DA 1417, which costs 4s., and may therefore be considered to offer great value at a shilling per song).

Just how delightful the human voice can be Elizabeth Schumann demonstrates in her own way in this record. The songs are the "Wiened," "Der Jäger," "Vergleiches Standen," and "Nachtigall."

For the benefit of those who recently heard no more of this season's "Toscanini" (who were misled on Whit Monday there is available a recording of the trio and final duet from the last act.

This Decca-Polydor recording (CA 823) includes as Octaviano, Tiana Lemnitz, who made a great hit at Covent Garden in this part for a soprano who, during the course of the evening, has to net well enough to convince that she is not only a boy of him.

Grinley, Shirecliffe, Shubrooke, Shuckburgh, Thursford, reveal the belief in supernatural beings of a lower order, elves, sprites, goblins.

"One can strike at random into Professor Elwell's book in the certainty of finding gold. Thus, "Goodwin Sands" is followed by the entry: "There is a tradition that the Goodwins were an island belonging to Earl Godwine that was washed away by the sea in 1007. But Goodwin may be a name of a dangerous shoal meaning literally 'good friend,' and given for the same reason as the wolf is called 'gullot' (literally 'Goldenfooted') in some parts of Sweden."

Hungerford is literally "hungerford," or "ford where people had to starve." Fekornshaw means "squirrel wood," and Leatherhead probably means "the public ford." Leatherhead stands at the point where the Mole is crossed by an important road.

Names of domestic animals are common, as in Cowley, Oxton, Shepton, Shipwreck. It is interesting, Professor Elwell notes, to find that the custom of grazing cattle at some distance from the home village or homestead—a custom still common in Scandinavia—must have been prevalent in England, not only in Scandinavian districts, but in purely English areas. In the North, names in "set" and "erg" testify to it, and in the South we find numerous names in "stac" and "t-cle."

Somerton must have been a place to which people moved in summer for the sake of better pasture, and there is even a case, Professor Elwell records, where Somerton and Winton are found close together.

In Kent and Sussex, villages in outlying districts had outlying pastures in the Weald-districts. They were called "den" and seem to have been used mostly for swine-pastures. Likewise, marshland was allotted to various villages. Place-names sometimes give a hint as to the mother-tongue of a "den" or "t-cle" of marsh.

Tenterden is "the den of the Thanet people, Burmarsh in South Kent, the marsh of the Canterbury people."

The book is more than an exhaustive work of reference: it is at once dictionary, history and romance.

seventeen, but on occasion a boy masquerading as a girl. Tiana Lemnitz did all this and beyond that sang, as she sings in this record, exquisitely.

YEHUDI MENUHIN has gone into the Galilee wilderness to retire from concert work for two years, but he has left a stack of recordings behind him for us to remember him by.

His latest releases are far more than the mere playing. It introduces an unfamiliar concerto, Dvorak in A minor, which for me must supplant the Brahms for the next few years without causing at least one concert-goer any tears.

The Dvorak, like the Brahms, was written for and with the help of Joseph, but there the resemblance ends. Where the Brahms is repetitive the Dvorak gets on with the job. It is full of good tunes, especially the slow movement, and every bar of it is characteristic of the composer's grace and elegant craftsmanship.

Yehudi's recording is HMV DB 2830-41.

TEN years before Liszt died, Franz Liszt made his debut as a pianist. Rosenthal, one of the few surviving pupils of Liszt, is still playing the piano.

His first record for many years is issued by H.M.V. Rosenthal is one of the great Chopin players of this world and his performance of three Chopin preludes and the A Flat Waltz (Op. 42) is as lovely as you could wish.

Most enchanting of all is the way he plays the graceful little Argentine which is the seventh of Chopin's Twenty-Four.

PEGGY ASHCROFT

A GAUMONT-BRITISH PICTURE Directed by ALFRED HITCHCOCK

John Buchan's greatest thriller with Robert Donat the famous star of "Monte Cristo," and Madeline Carroll of "I Was A Spy" fame.

"A grand thriller."—Daily Sketch.
"Robert Donat scores the triumph of his career."—Morning Advertiser.
"A British Film worthy of praise without reserve. Madeline Carroll gives the best performance of her career."—Daily Mail.

"When a picture is as good as 'The 39 Steps' it is almost superfluous to detail its individual virtues."—Observer.
"It is a picture which will keep you pinned to your seat—and which most of you will want to see twice."—Sunday Dispatch.

England's Story In Place-Names

The history of England, as told in the names of its towns, villages and hamlets, is the fascinating material handled by Professor Elbert Elwell in "The Concise Oxford Dictionary of English Place-Names" (Oxford University Press, 15s.).

He has shown, in this book of more than 500 double-column pages, what may lie behind the most innocent-seeming names—Baldock, for example, which comes from an early form of Baghdad and commemorates the Crusades; particularly the part taken in them by the Knights Templars.

Then, Tottenhoe means "a spur of land with a look-out house"; Bawdrip and Snargate refer to traps for catching animals; Harrow contains a word which meant a heathen temple. So the tale proceeds.

Names such as Kingston, Quinton, Athelney, Professor Elwell explains, tell us that the places belonged once to the King, the Queen, some prince; Rotherham must have been under the supervision of a reeve. Damerham is "the judges' manor." Charlton (Chorlton) is "village of free peasants"; the name indicates that other villages had some other status and tells of early manorialism.

Plains, Playford, Hesteth, perhaps Follifoot, speak of ancient sports or horse-racing. Ancient deer-parks are commemorated by names like Hartlip, Hindlip, Darton, Dasset, Roffey. Drakelow is probably a reminiscence of a myth in which a dragon inhabited a mound.

WORSHIPPERS OF WODEN

Place-names, says Professor Elwell, have something to tell us about Anglo-Saxon religion and belief before the conversion to Christianity. Though the Christian religion was introduced about 150 years after the immigration into England, there has been time for many places to get names referring to heathen worship. Such names, for instance, as Wednesbury, Woodnesborough, Wansdyke, denote places where Woden was worshipped, or that were associated with him. Grinley, Shirecliffe, Shubrooke, Shuckburgh, Thursford, reveal the belief in supernatural beings of a lower order, elves, sprites, goblins.

"One can strike at random into Professor Elwell's book in the certainty of finding gold. Thus, "Goodwin Sands" is followed by the entry: "There is a tradition that the Goodwins were an island belonging to Earl Godwine that was washed away by the sea in 1007. But Goodwin may be a name of a dangerous shoal meaning literally 'good friend,' and given for the same reason as the wolf is called 'gullot' (literally 'Goldenfooted') in some parts of Sweden."

Hungerford is literally "hungerford," or "ford where people had to starve." Fekornshaw means "squirrel wood," and Leatherhead probably means "the public ford." Leatherhead stands at the point where the Mole is crossed by an important road.

Names of domestic animals are common, as in Cowley, Oxton, Shepton, Shipwreck. It is interesting, Professor Elwell notes, to find that the custom of grazing cattle at some distance from the home village or homestead—a custom still common in Scandinavia—must have been prevalent in England, not only in Scandinavian districts, but in purely English areas. In the North, names in "set" and "erg" testify to it, and in the South we find numerous names in "stac" and "t-cle."

Somerton must have been a place to which people moved in summer for the sake of better pasture, and there is even a case, Professor Elwell records, where Somerton and Winton are found close together.

In Kent and Sussex, villages in outlying districts had outlying pastures in the Weald-districts. They were called "den" and seem to have been used mostly for swine-pastures. Likewise, marshland was allotted to various villages. Place-names sometimes give a hint as to the mother-tongue of a "den" or "t-cle" of marsh.

Tenterden is "the den of the Thanet people, Burmarsh in South Kent, the marsh of the Canterbury people."

The book is more than an exhaustive work of reference: it is at once dictionary, history and romance.

H.K. Business On Up Grade

WHITEWAYS' NEW CAMPAIGN

The full page advertisement for Messrs. Whiteways, Ltd., appearing in to-day's issue, calls for special attention, being the first of a series of full and half-page advertisements. The importance of such an intensive campaign lies in the fact that "Whiteways" are strongly of the opinion that business generally shows definite signs of improvement, and the considered view of a firm operating over forty branches throughout the Far East, must of course, be taken seriously.

As far as Hongkong is concerned, this campaign represents the largest advertising order to newspapers ever given, two full-pages and eight half-pages being booked for publication within one month. The South China Morning Post and the Hongkong Telegraph are the two newspapers selected for this publicity.

The manager of Whiteways informs us that the firm's London buyers are fully confident that the campaign will prove a great success, for the stocks in all departments have been purchased at the keenest prices, and, furthermore, the merchandise offered sets a high standard of quality.

WARSHIPS HASTEN TO SPAIN

areas of danger in the Spanish civil war were carried further today, according to messages reaching London.

Three British destroyers disembarked at Marseilles nearly three hundred persons from Barcelona, and H.M.S. London was reported to be in Barcelona Harbour with about one hundred refugees on board and to be taking off more American nationals.

British warships are standing by at Palma, Malaga, Alicante, Almeria and other places, ready to take off British and other nationals in case of need. A British destroyer has been to Tarragona and taken off three British and five Americans.

H.M.S. Veteran and Verity arrived this morning at San Sebastian.—British Wireless.

GREEN BELT FOR LONDON

KING TAKES ACTIVE INTEREST

London, July 24.
Another stage towards the completion of a "green belt" round outer London was taken today by the Middlesex County Council in agreeing to the purchase from the estate of the Royal Duke of Lancaster, for £315,000, of two thousand acres near Enfield.

The King has taken great interest in the matter and steps have been taken to ensure that the area purchased shall suffer no change apart from setting aside some portion for playing fields.—British Wireless.

SILVER IMPORTS INCREASE

IN RELATION TO GOLD IN U.S.

Washington, July 24.
The Department of Commerce reports silver imports into the United States for the week ended July 17 as totalling $1,618,712.

This exceeded the gold imports, which totalled $1,395,167, indicating a possible permanent reversal of the predominance of gold over silver which has prevailed throughout the past month.

Sources of the silver imports were as follows: Mexico, $1,089,380; Peru, $220,713; U.K., $116,186; Canada, $97,542.—United Press.

LOCARNO PARLEY EXPLAINED

TO GERMANY AND ITALY

London, July 24.
The Foreign Secretary saw the German and Italian Charges D'Affaires at the Foreign Office this afternoon to inform them regarding yesterday's meeting in London of representatives of Belgium, France and Great Britain.

This morning, both in Berlin and Rome, diplomatic representatives of the three Powers had acquainted the German and Italian Governments with the conclusions reached at the meeting and conveyed an expression of the three Powers' hope of a favourable reply to the invitation to a five-Power conference.

A communique issued in Berlin said the Director of the Political Department of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, who, in the absence of Baron Von Neurath, received the three Powers' representatives, while not in a position to indicate forthwith the answer of his Government, "gave them to understand that their demarche would be greeted with interest and sympathy."

The reception accorded in Berlin and Rome to the three-Power initiative, according to information so far available in London, appears to have been highly satisfactory and encourages the hope that the increasing deterioration in the European situation of recent times may have been arrested at last, giving the prospect of renewed co-operation in an attempt to reach a general and lasting settlement.—British Wireless.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE MARKET HIGHER YESTERDAY

New York, July 24.
Swan, Culbertson & Fritz Dow Jones summary of yesterday's markets:—Stocks prices to-day were irregularly higher and trading was moderately active. The market advanced after absorbing large realising sales. The rise was in anticipation of strength after Governor Landon's speech. The demonstration, however, did not materialise, although the Governor's receipt of a favourable Railroad, farm, steel, aviation, copper, electrical-equipment and mercantile stocks advanced. Utility securities, however, encountered some profit-taking, but prices rallied late in the session. Motor shares declined. Both bond and curb stocks were irregularly higher.

S. C. & F. New York office cables: Stocks: The market well absorbed light scattered offerings and closed irregularly. Traders were bullish for a pull, though they are seemingly awaiting a minor technical reaction. Sugar prices advanced by another 25 cents per ton. The Paramount Film Company has lost $476,000 during the quarter ended June 30, after absorbing $800,000 reserve, compared with a profit of $796,000 during the corresponding quarter of last year. The following company earnings are for the quarter ended June 30: The Union Carbide 89 cents per share as compared with 60 cents last year; The Hercules Powder $1.39 per share as against 96 cents the previous year; The Lambert Company 25 cents per share as against 34 cents last year; The Youngstown Sheet & Tube Company $1.98 per common share as against 83 cents per preferred share. The Freeport Texas Company earned $1.23 per share for the 6 months ended June 30 as against 64 cents last year. The Industrial Alcohol earned 23 cents per share for the half-year as against 70 cents the previous year. The Simmons Company estimates a profit of $1,413,000 for the 6 months ended June 30. Bank Clearings during the past week were up 7.9 per cent.

Cotton: There are indications of fresh Trade interest. Final July tenders have now stopped. The underdone is steady and the market acts well.

Wheat: There are ample supplies for the immediate future. Heavy hedge selling, however, is preventing any sustained upturns. A gradual tightening of the situation is probable as prices decline. A modern miller estimates the Canadian crop at 225,000,000 bushels. The weather remains dry.

Corn: Daily scattered rains appear to be gradually covering the Eastern Belt. There have been insufficient but they have been helpful to the crop. In the West, conditions are still dry and it is reported that the crop there is deteriorating daily. Rains are now forecast. A late estimate places the corn crop at two billion bushels.

Rubber: There will be an increase of 5,000 tons in the quota for this month. The expectation of a seasonal decline in consumption is contributing to the dullness. Production during June totalled 29,457 tons; estate stocks are estimated at 2,332 tons and dealers' stocks at 36,198 tons.

S. C. & F. Wall Street Journal morning comment:—The United States Steel Corporation has set up an over-time pay scale at all its plants. The Penick & Ford Company's profit is 14 per cent higher during the first half of the current year. The outlook among Nation-wide merchandisers is for the best trade in the second-half of any period since early in the depression. Engineering construction awards this week were over $50,000,000 as compared with $12,000,000 the previous week and over $25,000,000 during the corresponding period of last year.

Discipline In Prison

CHANGES MADE IN LOCAL LAW

Changes in prison rules are notified in the current issue of the Hongkong Government Gazette. New rules made include the following:

"Whenever in the opinion of the Superintendent it is desirable, either in the interests of a prisoner or in the interests of prison discipline, that a prisoner should perform his labour in a cell, the Superintendent may require him to do so; and in such case he shall perform such labour as can be suitably performed in a cell."

"A prisoner who is in separate confinement otherwise than under rule 279 and a prisoner who is at labour in a cell under rule 252 shall receive the diet prescribed for men and women without hard labour."

In the case of male prisoners it is made an offence to exercise or attempt to exercise a pernicious influence over other prisoners, or to undermine or attempt to undermine good order and discipline in the prison. To the punishment for these and certain other offences, there is added a provision for separate confinement for any term not exceeding three months.

CALMER MOOD IN COMMONS

CATTLE SUBSIDY DECISION

London, July 24.
After a protracted and disturbed debate on the unemployment assistance regulations, which only concluded early this morning after 24 1/2 hours of speeches, the House of Commons met this forenoon in a calmer mood, and, before adjourning, passed by 134 votes to 69 the third reading of the Cattle Industry Bill, extending the period of subsidy to the end of July next.

A motion for the adjournment for the summer recess will be taken to-day week. The Prime Minister hopes to leave London on Thursday for a holiday at Aix-les-Bains.—British Wireless.

TREASURY BILLS

London, July 24.
The total amount applied for in tenders for £50,000,000 Treasury bills was £72,297,000. The average rate per cent for bills at three months was 10/4.1d. against 11/7.57d. a week ago.—British Wireless.

600,000 bushels. The weather remains dry.

Corn: Daily scattered rains appear to be gradually covering the Eastern Belt. There have been insufficient but they have been helpful to the crop.
